An economic spring is coming to the Canadian Arctic. The "ice" of lack of knowledge and dark Polar mystery is rapidly being broken up, and the idea of useless, frozen wastes is plain out-of-date.

In fact, the vast, unknown Arctic is now just a romantic myth. During the last 25 years the northern regions of Canada have been methodically investigated and explored to such an extent that they are better known at present than parts of provinces further south.

Arctic Canada has, first of all, been systematically mapped, with the help of aerial photography of the whole land area. Hydrographers have charted the coasts and coastal waters, and geologists on land have probed rock and soil. Glaciers and icefields have been studied by one band of specialized scientists, the flora and fauna by another.

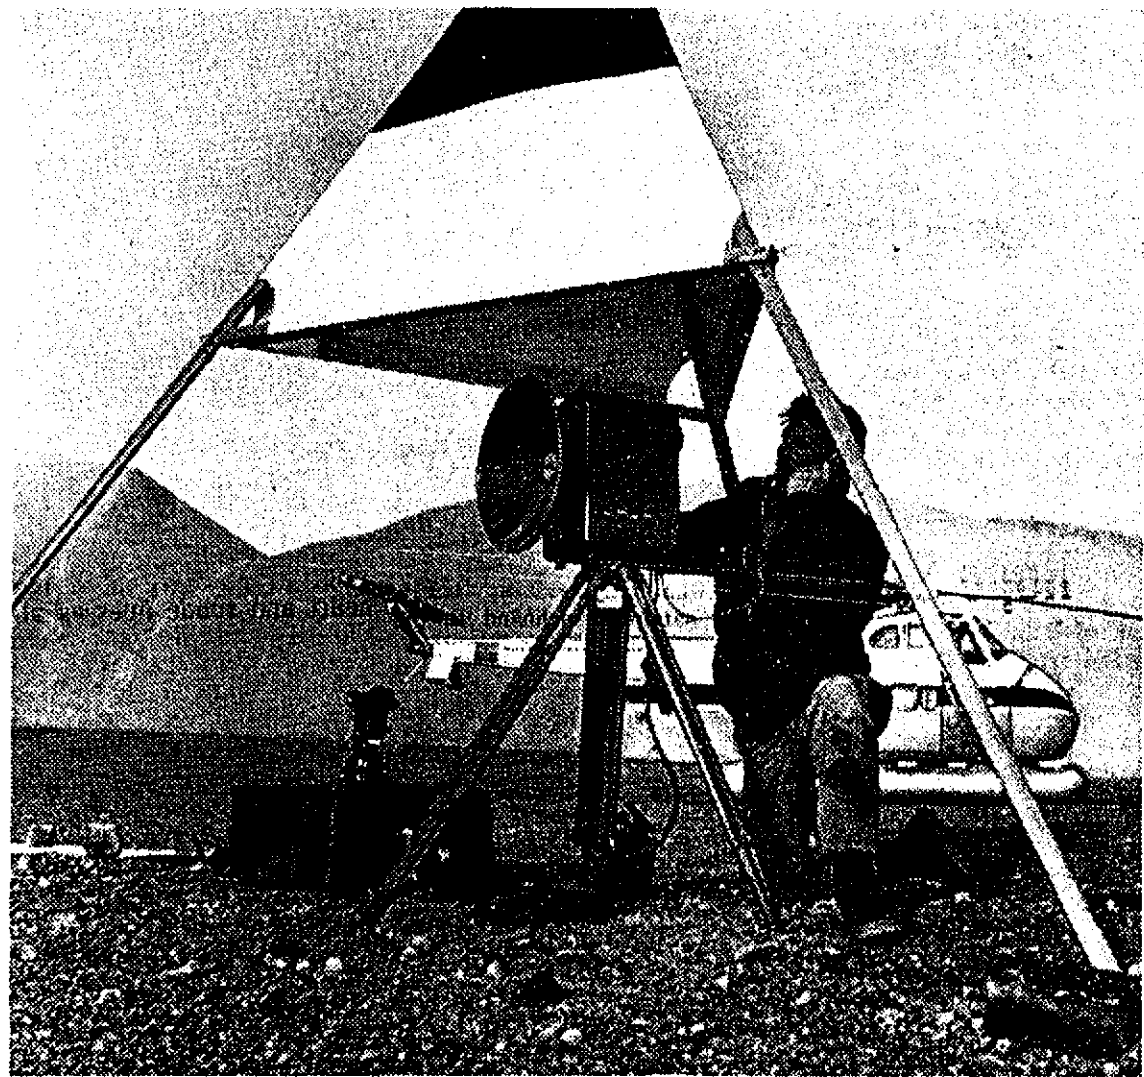

Perhaps the most intensive and sophisticated research program is the many-sided Polar Continental Shelf Project. It began in 1959 and is still active across the great, frozen flank of Canada's north western extremities, in 50-below-zero temperatures. Among masses of scientific data has emerged the fact that very extensive oil deposits are lying under the Arctic islands and mainland.

Research and studies have involved hundreds of millions of dollars, and many thousands of Canadians—most employed by the federal government, but many of them private air survey teams, crews of chartered commercial ships, and, recently, private oil seekers and mining prospectors. A lot of cold fingers and noses perhaps—but it seems to have broken the ice once and for always.

WCS MEETS

On Monday, April 13th the WCS met in the home of Mrs. David Waddle. Mrs. Waddle, Circle Leader opened the meeting with prayer and conducted the business session.

Mrs. Bob Turner brought an interesting program on the work being done by Methodist women in different parts of the world and then telling of the work of the local women of the Hope Church. A discussion followed. The group joined hands and was dismissed with prayer by Mrs. Maney. The hostess served a desert plate and coffee to 13 members.

BAKER CLUB MEETS

Ken Hargis, Social Security representative, was a guest at the Baker Extension Homemakers Club meeting on April 13 in the home of Mrs. C.G. Tittle with Mrs. Lawrence Key, co-hostess. He showed a film, "Silver Dollar," which proved to be most interesting.

The president Mrs. Lawrence Easterling, opened the meeting. Mrs. Key presented the devotion, "God's Time is Always Now," and Mrs. Tittle offered prayer. "Accent with Accessories" was the lesson, and there was a round-table discussion of this. Mrs. Ardell Clark had a Family Highlight report; as the health leader, Mrs. Tittle made a Dental Care report; Mrs. Merlin Cox, secretary-treasurer, performed the duties of her office.

Mrs. Creighton Middlebrooks won the door prize, and the hostesses served a sandwich plate and punch to 11 members. The May meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Roy Baker with Mrs. Woodrow Baker, co-hostess.

Television and Radio

By JERRY BUCK

AP Television-Radio Writer NEW YORK (AP) — If the singer on the Merv Griffin Show Thursday night looked familiar, it's not surprising. He's David Canary of "Bonanza." Canary plays Candy, the somewhat mysterious, somewhat satanic ranchhand to the Cartwrights.

"I want to expand the 'Bonanza' image," he said. "I'm not a Western man. I don't consider myself an action man. Let's face it, I'm really Gene Kelly inside Jack Palance's body."

He stirred his coffee and said, "I started out as a singer. That's the best kept secret in Hollywood. Every show I went on as a singer was canceled. Now I've got a break and I'm on the Merv Griffin Show."

What about NBC's own "Tonight Show?" He shrugged. "Johnny Carson's people turned me down five times. NBC couldn't get me on the subway."

Canary was silent for a moment, then added, "But I understand the psychology. They don't know I can sing. And fourth lead in 'Bonanza'?"

Everything physical about Canary belies the fact that he is a singer. The looks, the big rawboned body. He made the Pop Warner All-America football team in 1960 and later was drafted by the Denver Broncos after graduation from the University of Cincinnati.

Instead, he tried his hand at off-Broadway musical comedy. He landed a part in "Hi, Pals!" and met Julie Anderson, a petite brunette, who was in "Little Mary Sunshine." Canary's play lasted two glorious days, but they courted during a succession of other plays and were married on the West Coast.

Two years in the Army came next, after which he joined a road company of "The Fantas-

Today's hand may well be the best played of the year 1970. It certainly was the best played of the 840 board match between the Aces and the Circus.

Billy Eisenberg who sat South probably bid a trifle optimistically opposite a passed partner, but Bobby produced almost perfect cards for him and with a reasonable trump break the slam should have made fairly easily.

Billy ruffed East's ace of diamonds and led a club to dummy's ace. East discarded a diamond and Billy gave the hand some prolonged study.

The hand was being played on vugraph and one of the commentators who was looking at all the cards pointed out that Billy could make the hand by simply taking the heart finesse, cashing the ace of hearts and the ace and king of spades and then cross ruffing. A second commentator pointed out that West could defeat that line of play by ruffing in first with the nine of clubs and then with the jack of clubs in order to lead out his last club.

Meanwhile Billy continued to think and a third commentator then pointed out that Billy was going to make the hand by the simple expedient of taking both the heart and spade finessses although he would not try to cash the third spade.

Sure enough, Billy eventually did just that. He finessed his jack of spades, returned to dummy with the king, finessed his queen of hearts, cashed his ace of hearts and led a low heart. West ruffed with the club nine. Billy overruffed with dummy's king, ruffed a third diamond and led another heart. West did the best he could by ruffing with the jack and leading out his last trump but Billy was still able to cross ruff for two more trump tricks and make the last trick with the ace of spades.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

YOUTH ASKED FOR IT!

This column is for young people, their problems and pleasures, their troubles and fun. As with the rest of Helen Help Us!, it welcomes laughs but won't dodge a serious question with a brush off.

Send your teenage questions to YOUTH ASKED FOR IT, care of Helen Help Us! this newspaper.

THREE CHEERS FOR TEACHERS

Dear Helen: I wrote this for a special teacher, and when you print it I'll put it on my bulletin board so he'll know.

WHAT IS A FAVORITE TEACHER?

He is a good guy who doesn't have any pets. He's a guy who listens to corny jokes and lets you decorate his bulletin boards. On the first day of school he puts a drawing that you made (instead of listening) on the door. He's that guy with a grin from ear to ear.

He's the one who finally gives you detention after putting up with your gum-chewing zillions of times, but it isn't bad.

He WANTS you to understand fractions and what the word "contagious" means. He's the guy who says "It's 'Isn't', not 'aint'."

He's the man who lets you play softball with him and other older people. He understands that girls like that kind of stuff, too. He's the guy who lets you get an extra drink on hot days.

He's the one who asked you the answer when you don't know, but doesn't make you feel stupid, and then he explains it so anyone would know.

He's the one who makes you sit with a boy when you're standing on the bus on the way from a school trip. (And you don't like boys!) He is the one who is proud of his wife and little girl—and also proud of his kids at school. I surely hope he'll be a seventh grade teacher next year.

SIXTH GRADE KAY

Dear Helen: I'm not too well at expressing my feelings, but I'll try.

There's this certain teacher (I'll call her P.B.) who just taught us for eight weeks. She was the most wonderful, warm, friendly teacher I have ever had. The subject was art. She not only put her knowledge into her job, but most of all, her personality. She made us feel as though we could always improve and always learn, and we learned how to accept criticism, too.

She would joke around while explaining something, to make the project more interesting. It was never, "Do this or else."

She became a friend to everyone, especially me. Even while she gave a semester break, she gave up her time to come back and help the seniors finish their projects.

It's certainly true that if you put a little kindness into your job, you'll make life worth living for someone else.—C.C.

Dear Helen: We also have a best-loved teacher at our school, and surprise, surprise, she's a nun. I should say The Nun, because she's the best. She is outspoken, original and honest, plus strict and fearless. She can be "The Bouncer" if you don't watch out. She's very well educated, but not only in book-learning, but

Levenson Hits Lectern Circuit

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

NEW YORK — (NEA) — A tete-a-tete with Sam Levenson is a performance.

Sam needs only one (listener) to make a crowd.

"Abbie Hoffman," he says fervently. "I'm willing to let him live. The trouble is, I don't think he's willing to let me live."

To punctuate the sentence, Sam grabs you by the cuff.

He also smiles that school-teacherly smile which arches owlishly around the rimmed eyeglasses.

Sam now plays down the reminiscences about mama and papa and family which were the crux of his night club spiels from the Copa to Las Vegas. He hasn't been a stand-up comic for years.

Sam has a new bag—the lectern.

Whether it's the local Haddassah, the Junior League in some Midwestern hamlet or a sex education group in Toronto, Sam's available—for the right lecture fee. He still makes the TV scene on the talk shows (most recently Dick Cavett), but that's primarily to keep alive for the live audience.

Even an informal conversation turns him on. He gets passionate about the generation gap—or lack of same.

"The kids," he says, in people.

She is determined to give each student the best chance he can have. She demands obedience and respect. She makes us do things over until we get them right, and we love her for it. It's a rare and beautiful teacher who can gain real admiration and love by being tough!—ASEN-IOR

Dear Readers: And it's a rare and beautiful day when I can devote a whole youth-written column of praise of adults. May there be more such days!—H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble, or just plain trouble, let Helen help YOU. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bottel in care of Hope Star. Copyright, 1969, Inc.

Neither is the theme new for the erstwhile school-teacher who switched careers in mid-life. Fifteen years ago, he was already offering audiences Levenson's Law, or 10 Guaranteed Ways to Raise a Brat. From old notes, he produced samples:

"Don't let him 'suffer' the way you did. Give him everything he wants before he changes his mind..."

Always defend him against teachers, neighbors, policemen and other children. They don't understand him (they can't even STAND him)...

Give up all your interests in favor of his. There's nothing a kid needs more than a 40-year-old pal...

The little kids to whom these aphorisms were directed have grown up to become the "Beat" generation. (Sam's own son, Conrad, is a practicing architect

—Frank Lloyd Wright. "His dad calls him."

"The father is a pal," says Sam now, seriously, "because he doesn't have the guts to be a father."

For Sam, the gentle nudge of humor is the lead-in to the message. He is basically a practicing amateur sociologist.

"What we are seeing in our society," he says, "is really a transference of power. The power has gone to the people. The PTA is a peoples' party now. The T is the weakest part."

And what significance does this have for us, or where are we going?

"From here," he answers, again grabbing a cuff, "we are going to come to the fulfillment of both the dream and the nightmare—democracy for all."

"The less than average will come to authority."

"The whole world is Show and Tell. Now everybody approaches all subjects with an open mouth."

About this time, a guy with an open mouth comes up.

"Hey, Sam Levenson!" he says. "I want you to meet my friend from England."

The friend from England says he has been living in New York since 1949.

"Just in time," smiles Sam sweetly, "to get in on the pollution."

FASHION TIPS

Carefree Fashion

Snakeskin and art deco print dresses are big in synthetics and knits for spring. They make traveling a joy, are perfect for a day at the office, cocktails, dinner and/or the theater. They'll even see you through a PTA meeting in a pinch and the no-care fabrics make fashion carefree for you.

THE WELL CHILD
Q—My grandson, 10, wets the bed nearly every night. His doctor says there is nothing wrong with him but that he is just a sound sleeper. What do you think?
A—Bedwetting, in a few cases, is a result of an abnormal urinary outlet or bladder. If these causes have been ruled out, an allergy to some food eaten several times a week should be considered. A recent study indicates that bedwetting runs in some families. Another study revealed that nearly one-third of all those who continue to wet the bed after they are 6 have abnormal brain waves. Even though they show no other signs of epilepsy, they are helped by taking anticonvulsant drugs.
When all the causative factors have been ruled out and other treatments have failed, imipramine (Tofranil), desipramine (Norpramin or Peritofan), nortriptyline (Aventyl) or amitriptyline (Elavil, Etrafon or Triavil) may help.
Q—Do you think a child should be punished for bedwetting?
A—No—if a child is doing this would make him worse.
Q—Some people say that if you have the television on with the window drapes open in the daytime or the lights on at night, it is bad for a child's eyes. My doctor says this is nonsense. Do you agree?
A—Authorities now agree that watching TV is less tiring to the eyes of both children and adults if the room is not darkened. Your doctor is right.

Bucks Take 101-96 Win Over N.Y.

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Listen, the New York Knicks are setting off Lew Alcindor. Tick...tick...tick. Boom!

Alcindor, charged up after two losses to New York, scored 33 points and collected a club record 31 rebounds to lead Milwaukee to a pressure 101-96 victory in the National Basketball Association playoffs Friday night.

It was a must win for the young Bucks against the Knicks, who now hold a 2-1 lead in their best-of-7 Eastern Division finals with game No. 4 coming up in Milwaukee Sunday.

In the night's other NBA playoff game, the Los Angeles Lakers moved within one game of sweeping the Western Division finals with a 115-114 overtime triumph over the Atlanta Hawks.

The New York Nets tripped Kentucky 122-118 in overtime, Denver beat Washington 130-111 and Los Angeles turned back Dallas 115-103 in opening round games of the American Basketball Association playoffs.

The Bucks erased an early Knick advantage and sprinted to a 29-16 first quarter lead at Milwaukee.

New York repeatedly narrowed the gap, but could never come closer than seven points. Bob Dandridge helped keep the pressure on the Knicks with 22 points.

Wilt Chamberlain, a notoriously poor shooter, sank two in a row with 17 seconds left to give the Lakers a 3-0 edge going to Sunday's game at Los Angeles. Atlanta's Butch Beard hit two free throws to tie the score at 105 after regulation time.

Chamberlain, who made nine of 16 from the free throw line, finished with 18 points and 26 rebounds. The Lakers lost Jerry West and Dick Garrett on personal fouls in the fourth quarter. West finished with 35 points while Lou Hudson and Beard each hit 22 for the Hawks.

Lavern Tart triggered the Nets' victory over the Colonels with 46 points as New York grabbed a 1-0 lead in their best-of-7 ABA Eastern Division semifinals.

The game was tied at 109 at the end of regulation as Kentucky's Earl Carrier sank two free throws with four seconds left. Kentucky came to within two points, 120-118 in the overtime period, but Tart nailed it down for the Nets with two free throws at the 25-second mark.

Denver had to come from behind in its Western Division semifinal contest with Washington.

Rick Barry's early sharp-shooting built big leads for the Caps throughout much of the first half. But Larry Jones and Ben Warley finally paced the Rockets to a 67-65 halftime lead with key, three-point buckets.

After an even third period, Jones, who scored 33, and rookie superstar Spencer Haywood, with 32, poured it on to fuel the Rockets to a runaway fourth stanza.

Los Angeles sprung to an early lead and held it all the way in grabbing the Western Division opener from Dallas.

Bob Warren set the pace for the Stars, with 21 points, followed by Craig Raymond and George Stone with 18 apiece. In addition to his point production, Raymond intimidated Dallas' shooters with blocked shots.

Glen Combs of Dallas was the game's high man with 33.

Yankees In 4-1 Victory Over Birds

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer
Dave Johnson, a bright young man and possessor of a Golden Glove, helped hand the New York Yankees a victory with a fielding lapse and the Baltimore second baseman didn't even touch the ball in question.

And, that was Johnson's problem. The boo-boo helped the Yankees snap a three-game losing skid as Danny Cater followed with a bases-clearing two-out triple in the 11th inning, securing a 4-1 triumph for New York Friday night and sending the Orioles reeling to their third loss in a row after five straight victories.

In the only other scheduled American League contests, Detroit nipped Boston in 11 innings, 3-2, Oakland rapped Minnesota 5-2, and Kansas City trimmed California 7-5.

In National League action, the New York Mets blanked Philadelphia 6-0, Chicago edged Montreal 8-7, St. Louis bested Pittsburgh 5-2, Cincinnati belted San Francisco 8-5, Houston stopped San Diego 4-1 and the Los Angeles at Atlanta game was postponed because of wet grounds.

The Yanks and Orioles were locked in a 1-1 tie after 10 innings with New York ace Mel Stottlemyre limiting the Orioles to five hits in nine innings while Baltimore's Tom Phoebus allowed but two hits in eight.

Mailmen Always Have Dog Trouble

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — "The poor mailman has enough trouble fending off mean dogs, let alone being responsible for the friendly ones," said Municipal Court Judge William A. Graham.

Graham then dismissed a $100 claim by Robert L. Blanchard Sr. against mail carrier Norman E. Duhamel for cost of medical treatment for his poodle.

The poodle was injured, all parties agreed, when he was attacked by a neighborhood collie which struck up a friendship with Duhamel and was following him about his appointed rounds.

The judge told Blanchard he was suing the wrong man.

Waiting Is Over in Hockey Play

The waiting is over for Pittsburgh and Chicago.

The Penguins and Black Hawks, standing by since sweeping their respective first round Stanley Cup series, swing back into action Sunday now that St. Louis and Boston have finished off their opponents.

The Blues, winners of the National Hockey League's West Division title, eliminated Minnesota 4-2 Wednesday night, ending their series in six games. The Bruins finished off New York 4-1, ending their series in six as well.

The divisional finals begin Sunday with Pittsburgh at St. Louis and Boston at Chicago.

Boston went into its game against the Rangers with a set plan and made it work, getting two goals from their super defenseman, Bobby Orr.

"We wanted to check them close in the early part of the game," said Coach Harry Sinden. "We figured if the game was tied or they were down a goal and facing elimination, they'd open it up and give us more chances."

That's just the way it worked with the Bruins turning Ranger mistakes into second period goals by Orr and Wayne Cashman to take the lead and then clinching it in the third on Orr's second goal and another by Derek Sanderson when the Rangers opened up play.

With Orr on the ice, the Bruins hardly need a strategy. The super defenseman who made NHL history by winning the scoring title with 120 points in the regular season, was slightly sensational. He scored his sixth and seventh goals of the series, one on a power play deflection up close, the other on a 50-foot slap shot.

When he wasn't scoring, Orr dazzled the Rangers with his stickhandling and rink-length rushes. Asked if he thought his offensive output this season might influence youngsters playing defense, he grinned.

"They might get themselves in a lot of trouble by copying me," he said. "I get caught up in a lot."

Orr explained that his tactics on the ice are determined by what the other team does when he gets the puck. "If there's an opening, I'll take off," he said. "If not, I'll pass."

The Rangers gave him enough openings Wednesday, something Sinden thinks his club might not see against Chicago.

"They're a tough team," he said. "They don't leave themselves open for good scoring opportunities as much as the Rangers do."

St. Louis, trying to reach the Stanley Cup final round for the third straight year, zoomed into the West finals on the strength of a pair of goals by veteran Ab McDonald.

McDonald and Red Berenson, who also picked up a pair of assists, scored two goals 47 seconds apart early in the second period while two Minnesota players were in the penalty box. Minnesota had taken the early lead on a goal by defenseman Barry Gibbs but McDonald's first goal of the night tied it for the Blues. Then, after the two quick power play goals, Ray Cullen hit for the North Stars but Larry Keenan's third period goal clinched it for St. Louis.

McCovey Gets 4th Homer, Giants Lose

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Willie McCovey is in nightly orbit and Ken Henderson is out of sight, but San Francisco is still losing baseball's space race to the roaring Cincinnati Reds.

McCovey slammed his fourth home run in as many games Friday night and Henderson cracked two hits for a .478 batting average—tops in the majors—but Cincinnati rode five homers, the last two by Hal McRae and Tony Perez in the ninth inning, to an 8-5 victory over the Giants.

The Giants, who have divided their last four starts despite a barrage of nine home runs, took a 5-4 lead in the top of the ninth when McCovey connected against reliever Wayne Granger.

FORM CHARTS

By MARTY RALBOVSKY, NEA Sports Writer

Atlanta, NL West

PITCHING — Nieko was 23-13 with 2.57 ERA. Fine knuckler and quite durable. Behind him are Ron Reed (18-10), George Stone (13-10) and Pat Jarvis (13-11). Additions of Jim Nash from Oakland and Larry Jaster from Montreal will help, too. Starting line excellent. Bullpen anchored by Cecil

Upshaw, one of baseball's best young relievers, and Hoyt Wilhelm, 46, best of all time. Rating—A

CATCHING — Bob Diddle had good rookie season in '69, hitting .256 with 32 RBIs. Also handled knucklers well. He'll get help from Bob Tillman. Rating—B

INFIELD — Orlando Cepeda hit .257 with 22 HRs last season, but could do better. He's at first. All-Star Felix Millan (.267) is at second. Cleto Boyer at third. Boyer hit 14 HRs last year, batted .250. Short could go to either Sonny Jackson or Gil Garrido, neither of whom did much with bat last season, or a rookie, Darrell Evans, who did plenty, but in minors. Bob Aspromonte and Tommie Aaron in reserve. Rating—B

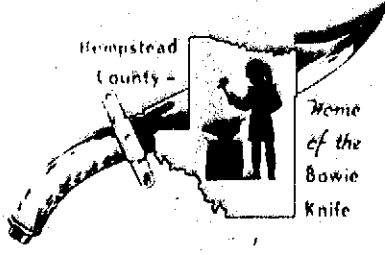

OUTFIELD — Aaron, 36, hit an even .300 with his 44 HRs. Finally getting superstar recognition he has long deserved. In left is Carly, who bounced back from tuberculosis with .342 season. With Felipe Alou gone, center will probably go to Tony Gonzalez, who hit .294 for Braves after leaving San Diego last season. Bookies Oscar Brown, Bob Mitchell and Marlon Murphy possible utilitymen. Rating—B+

TOP ROOKIES — Evans seems the best. He hit .360 in half a season at Richmond.

Prediction: 4th in NL West

Local Twin Girls Give Up Military Life

Landslides Threaten in France

SALLANCHES, France (AP) — More landslides today endangered workers sifting the debris of the avalanche that killed 72 persons at a children's tuberculosis sanatorium Thursday. Mounting skepticism greeted an official judgment that the avalanche was unforeseeable.

Teams working through the night under floodlights dug out more bodies of victims. By mid-morning 42 corpses had been recovered from the thousands of tons of rock, earth and snow that crashed down on the hospital from a mountain called the Roc des Fils.

Thursday night and again this morning work was halted by new slides of earth and rock.

The one during the night caused no injuries, and work was resumed an hour later. The one this morning smashed into a wing of the sanatorium which escaped the killer slide Thursday. The sanatorium had been evacuated, but the slide today broke a gendarme's leg.

An official inquiry has been opened into Thursday's avalanche, the most deadly single slide in European history.

Star Feature Writer

The Bruce twins are home. Maye and Faye made the headlines back in 1942 when they were the first twins to enlist in the newly organized Women's Army Auxiliary Corps, later shortened to Women's Army Corps. On December 31, 1969, they made the news again as the first twins to be discharged from the Women's Air Force.

How did they start in the army and end up in the air force? After a military life for 20 years, how do they like being civilians? Do they feel like they benefited by their years in the military? We asked these and other questions of the Bruce twins at the family home, 121 West 16th where they are living.

Women in military life were something new in '42 and the twins' introduction to a non-civilian status was by means of an army recruiter in Baton Rouge, La. You see, they had gone to the Louisiana city to visit one of their 12 brothers, and they were attracted by the WAAC's forest green jacket, pink shirt, and snappy overseas cap. (That's right, 12 brothers? Sounds like they were in a small army at home. Four of those brothers—Larry, Jim, Floyd and T.J. — still reside in Hope with their families.)

They served well in the army until the end of the war and were discharged in 1945. There followed several civilian years during which Maye changed her name from Bruce to Robinette. Other changes also took place before 1952 found the U.S. in the Korean War and the twins found themselves in the air force.

Don't get the idea that they joined a military service to see the world. They had duty in various parts of the country and a few overseas assignments, but for nearly half of their 20 years' service the Bruce twins were stationed at Barksdale Air Force Base in Shreveport. This they liked. For the most part, the far-distant assignments were not to their liking. Oh, a few nice things occurred, such as meeting Bob Hope while they were in Thailand. But they liked Barksdale best.

How do they like being civilians now? Faye, who received a disability discharge because of arthritis, is, understandably, glad to sleep later in the morning and to have less strenuous activities. Not so with Maye. She misses the crowded life of the air force and likes to do things. So, she's been painting houses. On the level, er, that is, ladder. So far, she's only had inside jobs but she'd like to paint outside as well.

How were they benefitted by their years in the WACs and WAFCs? They feel that they gained (1) knowledge, (2) discipline, (3) a respect for law and order. Such building blocks as those make for a firm foundation for any future endeavors. Good luck, girls, in your role as civilians.

Nixon Will Address Nation Mon.

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the signs pointing to another major withdrawal of U.S. troops, President Nixon makes his fourth broadcast to the nation Monday night on his effort to scale down U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

The President's address, delayed four days after troubles developed on the Apollo 13 space flight, will originate from the Western White House at San Clemente, Calif.

No time has been set for the so-called "update report" although the broadcast originally set Thursday had been scheduled for 9 p.m.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird a day earlier provided a possible tipoff to what the President will say, asserting in a speech at Ft. Riley, Kan., that Nixon "shortly will announce a further reduction in U.S. personnel in Vietnam."

"The return of the 1st Infantry Division from Vietnam to Ft. Riley will be followed in the months immediately ahead by redeployment of additional thousands of American troops as our Vietnamization program marches on," he said.

Expense Abuse Will Not Be Tolerated

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State Revenue Commissioner Bob K. Scott said Thursday he would not "tolerate Revenue Department employees taking abuse on imagined expense account irregularities."

Scott made the statement during an appearance before a subcommittee of the Legislative Joint Auditing Committee. Scott met with the three legislators who make up the subcommittee to discuss alleged expense account abuses turned up by a legislative audit of the Revenue Department.

Scott told the subcommittee he would not permit any of his employees to be questioned by the full committee. He said later, however, that he would leave it to the employees' discretion.

Scott called the questioning by committee members "abusive" and said, "I'm paid to take that kind of abuse—they're not."

The subcommittee decided, however, to ask several former and present employees to appear before the full auditing committee next month.

Sen. Virgil Fletcher of Benton said after the meeting that he was certain Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller would insist that the employees appear before the committee to answer questions.

The legislative audit took exception to mileage expenses claimed by some employees in the fiscal year. It also questioned what Scott said was "a few isolated instances of the failure of a motel to verify" the stay of department employees.

Scott said he met Monday with 11 employees whose expense accounts had been questioned by the audit and found that they had done nothing "improper, let alone illegal."

One of the exceptions listed by the audit was a claim by W. T. Green of Arkadelphia, a department auditor, for lodging in a motel on Lake Hamilton at Hot Springs during the 1969 horse racing season. Scott said Green claimed expenses for lodging at a cabin in which he had an interest, but Scott said he found nothing improper. The commissioner said Green was charged $5 a day for use of the cabin when it would have cost $20-$25 a day to stay downtown.

Scott also said it would have cost about $5 a day in mileage for Green to drive back and forth between Hot Springs and Arkadelphia, but then Green could not have worked the long hours each day that he did.

Among the persons the subcommittee said it wanted to appear before the full committee were Dave Jones, whose expenses were questioned during the spot check and Green. Jones is former Director of Finance and Purchasing for the Revenue Department.

Thinks Report by Judge Was Good

By TOMMY YATES
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Robert Sarver, commissioner of Correction, says federal District Judge J. Smith Henley delivered a "darn good memorandum that was certainly quite appropriate" on the Board of Correction's prison progress report.

Henley said Wednesday the board's report was evidence of a "prompt and reasonable" start toward elimination of prison operations he ruled unconstitutional Feb. 18.

The board's plan told of what progress had been made at the prisons since Henley's ruling.

Henley said, however, in his memorandum that steps should be taken immediately to properly supervise the yard and barracks at Cummins Prison Farm on a 24-hour basis. Henley also said he had continued to receive inmate complaints about conditions in isolation cells and asked the board to report on the cells. A report on sanitary conditions in the cells and the number of men who occupy them also was requested by Henley.

Henley said May 10 was the deadline for filing a report dealing with the questions he had raised. He also requested by July 10 a full report of progress that had been made up to June 30 at both Cummins and Tucker Prison Farm.

"We will be taking steps in the next two to three days to bring conditions into compliance," Sarver said in an interview. "We've been moving as rapidly as we possibly can but what he (Henley) says is absolutely right."

Sarver said he was not surprised that Henley generally accepted the board's report.

In fact, Sarver said, "I think we surprised him because I think we got more done in a shorter period of time that he thought we could."

O. H. Storey III, Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller's aide for prison affairs, said he thought Henley merely wanted more information on what "we're going to do immediately to provide more security for inmates in the barracks. He wants more specific information on what we can do until funds become available."

About $2.3 million in new money appropriated for the prisons by last month's special legislative session will become available July 1.

"We'll be able to speed up when we get the money," Sarver said. "We'll have more staff personnel to do shake-downs and supervise the barracks."

Noting Henley's comments that the department was not in compliance on isolation cell conditions, Sarver said most of the complaints Henley received from inmates did not deal with sanitation, the complaints "deal with the way the inmates are being treated."

"I think we are in compliance (on the isolation cells) now, Sarver said. "There may be days when we may have more men in a cell that I'd like, but that is very unusual."

He said appliances in the isolation cells are all operative. "He (Henley) says he just would like to have more information and we can give him that," Sarver said, "but I can't speculate whether it will satisfy him or not."

Henley said in his memorandum that it may be "difficult to disarm every one of the inmates, except those authorized to be armed," but Sarver said he was going to give the inmates an opportunity to turn in any weapons they may have before beginning shake-downs.

After the warning, Sarver said, "possessing a weapon constitutes an infraction of the rules and would result in severe disciplinary action such as postponement of a parole, loss of good time and isolation confinement."

Medals Will Be Given To Astronauts

By TOM SEPPY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon honors the Apollo 13 astronauts today by presenting them with the Medal of Freedom, the nation's highest civilian award, on behalf of the American people.

Nixon flies to Hawaii to make the presentation but stops in Houston where he will present a similar award to the ground crew that handled the Apollo 13 mission.

Sigurd A. Sjoberg, director of flight operations, Manned Spacecraft Center, Houston, will accept the medal from the President on behalf of the crew of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Nixon decided to give the astronauts the medal, the White House said, after he saw the successful splashdown of the embattled Apollo 13 spacecraft Friday.

Astronauts James A. Lovell Jr., John L. Swigert Jr. and Fred W. Haise were to have made a moon landing but their mission was aborted Monday night because of a sudden electrical power failure in the spaceship.

Nixon watched the splashdown in a room next to his White House office along with former astronauts Michael Collins and William A. Anders.

"He broke out in spontaneous applause when he first saw the astronauts' parachutes on television," Andrus told newsmen afterwards. "The President was certainly relieved that the crew got back safely."

Nixon himself announced the trip to Houston and Hawaii. "There are no adjectives that can be added at this time," he told newsmen. "I thought the most exciting day of my life was the day I was elected President of the United States."

"I thought perhaps next to that was the day that Apollo 11 completed its flight and I met when it came down to sea in the Pacific."

"But there is no question in my mind that for me, personally, this is the most exciting, the most meaningful day that I have ever experienced," Nixon said.

Immediately after splashdown, Nixon telephoned the wives of astronauts Lovell and Haise and the mother of bachelor Swigert. He will pick up Mrs. Lovell and Mrs. Haise in Houston and take them and Swigert's parents to Hawaii.

He also proclaimed Sunday as a National Day of Prayer and Thanksgiving.

Collins quoted Nixon as saying he did not believe the problems encountered by Apollo 13 should prevent future space exploration.
